Registrations Still Being Accepted for Black Men in Unions -- Openings Available for Some Great Workshops

Some of you have asked whether there are still openings for Black Men in Unions. Yes, absolutely! After last year's BMIU sold out we worked with the Somerset Inn to find more space for this year's conference. As a result there should be conference openings for everyone. Get your registration in to guarantee your first choice of workshop.

Three of the nine workshops are full: # 2 Communications for the Masses, #4 Retirement & Investment Strategies, and #7 Diversity & Civil Rights.

STRATEGIC CONTRACT BARGAINING

Thursdays 6pm-8pm

March 2nd, 2023 – April 6, 2023

This course will teach you effective techniques of bargaining local/main table agreements. Come learn the legalities and do' and don'ts of the very legal document that dictates your wages, health care, safety, benefits and rights on and off the shop floor. Learn strategies of effective representation to ensure fair and equitable agreements for your constituency. Course is taught by veteran union bargainer Andrea Hunter.

What is Labor's Legislative Agenda for Michigan in 2023?

Free Virtual Symposium

Saturday, February 18th, 10am-noon

The political landscape has changed with the November 2022 elections. More pro-labor elected officials are now in control in Lansing, but only by slim majorities. What does this mean for Labor in Michigan?

Join Labor activists from across the state for an interactive conversation on Labor's agenda and ways to accomplish these goals. AFL-CIO President Ron Bieber and AFT Michigan President David Hecker will lead the discussion on Labor's priorities. We will also delve into strategies for achieving these goals to improve worker rights in our state.
